

Python is a high-level programming language used to tell computers what to do in a way that's close to human language.